

The AILASA Monograph Prize

The AILASA Monograph Prize acknowledges an outstanding book in the discipline of Iberian and Latin American Studies; including history, politics, literary and cultural studies, or any other field in the Humanities and Social and Sciences more broadly. The prize will be awarded to a single- or multi-authored monograph published during the calendar years 2021 and 2022.

The prize of $250 AUD will be awarded in 2022. Usually, this would occur at the AILASA biennial conference, but in 2022, the winner will be announced later in the year. The judging panel will consist of the President of AILASA, or their representative, and up to three other judges. Past winners of the Prize will be encouraged to participate in the judging process. Only one award will be made every two years. AILASA reserves the right to not award a prize in any given two-year period. One other outstanding work may be recognised with an “Honourable Mention.”

In order to be eligible for consideration by the judging panel, the following eligibility criteria must be met:

- 1) The book must be on a topic related to Iberian or Latin American Studies in the Humanities and Political and Social Sciences. It may be written in English, Spanish or Portuguese.
- 2) Edited collections are ineligible for the prize.
- 3) The author must be a current member of AILASA at the time of applying. In the case of multiple authors, all authors should be current members of AILASA to be eligible to apply.
- 4) An electronic copy of the book (PDF or other format) must be submitted to the AILASA secretary by Friday 21 October 2022. Submission is electronic via ailasa@ailasa.org.

The winning author will be informed by late 2022 via email by the President of AILASA. Details of the winning book and author will be posted on the AILASA website. Only the winner (and the Honourable Mention) will be announced; not the nominees.